

Discounted gift trusts explained

There are many options available to individuals worried about their IHT liability, but some are put off due to the need to lose an aspect of control over their money.

One option that can help with this is Discounted Gift Trust (DGT).

A Discounted Gift Trust is an arrangement that allows an individual to gift a sum of money yet retain the right to receive an income from it.

Find out more and how we could be involved click here.

by Paul Chilver

Pre-nups. Are they legally binding in the UK?

by Melanie Loxley

If I lose capacity, who will manage my affairs?

by Lisa Cox

Considered Inheritance Tax planning?

by Leah Woodnott

In case you missed it

- 200 years celebrations reach halfway mark
- Tej Thakkar - New Head of Regulatory
- Working from home - flexible working application
- Sexual harassment in the workplace
- Buying a business - due diligence
- Our new charity of the year

For some free advice

just register